

Questions about the topic 1.3:

1. Multiculturalism is important because...
 - a. ... it reduces dialogue between cultures that are fundamentally different.
 - b. ... it reduces ignorance and dissolves disunity.
 - c. ... it creates a climate of mistrust rather than trust.

2. What is a 'learning shock'?
 - a. To realize not having studied enough for the next exam.
 - b. To experience a learning blockade caused by a 'culture shock'.
 - c. To experience frustration, fear and confusion when confronted with unfamiliar teaching and learning methods.

3. What is the main goal of an ice-breaker activity at the beginning of the term?
 - a. to learn more about cultural differences of the students
 - b. to get to know each other while creating a positive classroom environment
 - c. to help international students overcoming their learning shock

4. Please help us improving the topics of Module I by giving us feedback.
 - a. What did you like about the learning contents of Module I?
 - b. What would you improve?

Correct answers:

1b

2c

3b