

Quiz – module 1 topic 2 Technologies and the labor market

1) Which role should higher education institutions play in training these “transition workers”?

Select one or more options:

- a. By giving shorter training sessions (like modules), giving workers skills with more added value - Correct
- b. By offering training in digital platforms to reach a wider audience - Correct
- c. By offering network training promoted by different partners - Correct
- d. By making flexible and online courses - Correct
- e. By promoting post-graduate courses - Correct

2) with the current production forms, workers:

Select one or more options:

- a. have little social protection - Correct
- b. are highly adaptable - Correct
- c. may have high and varying income - Correct
- d. have more flexible hours - Correct
- e. may have low and varying income - Correct
- f. have knowledge of hard- and software - Correct
- g. should have lifelong training - Correct
- h. must know about data analysis - Correct
- i. may change jobs often during their lifetime - Correct
- j. may use digital platforms for work - Correct

3) How should states step in to support “new workers”?

Select one or more options:

- a. by promoting digital training - Correct
- b. by directly financing the training of workers - Correct
- c. by creating social protection schemes (disability, health, unemployment) - Correct
- d. by incentivizing higher education institutions to create more targeted training for a more mature target audience - Correct
- e. by promoting training adjusted to each type of need - Correct

